Third Sunday in Ordinary Time

Have you ever thought about how you can let the light of Christ shine more brightly in your life. Most people, including me, are quite content to move along slowly and just try to be a good catholic and not make waves. However, God is always looking for ways to change that sort of attitude and if you take the time to listen and allow the Holy Spirit to begin his work in you then you may just find your life begins to change and your light just glows more brightly.

In our first reading Isaiah is reflecting on the invasion of Israel which split the nation in two and led to a great division between the tribes of Israel. Now Isaiah sees the time when those divisions can be healed for a new light is coming, one which will defeat the darkness and bring the divided nation back into fellowship. The psalm is calling upon the people to look again at the Lord who is their light and their help. How often do we chant the psalm yet fail to listen to the words. This is the prayer of the disciple, calling on the Lord to break the shackles of fear that stop us from becoming a light for our families, friends and neighbours. It calls on us to hope in Him, to hold firm to our beliefs and to take heart from his promises.

Paul sees the divisions that have affected the relationships between the churches he has formed in Corinth. He urges them to be reconciled to one another. Division leads to error and now they have turned from the light of faith and split in various factions. This is not the way forward. We are one church with one Lord and those who seek to tear us apart must repent and be brought back into unity with Christ.

Jesus by moving to the town of Capernaum on the lake of Galilee, is fulfilling the vision of Isaiah bringing His light to the people of the regions which suffered from the divisions of history. He brings healing to a divided people and gives them a vision of the Kingdom of Heaven. As He walks along the lake side he begins calling to his apostles, to Peter, Andrew, James, and John. He sets alight the flame within them which will burn so brightly that many will come to know Jesus through their work of evangelisation. Now, the Lord's ministry among His people can truly begin.

A Message from Carmine Rea:

I would like to thank the parish community for your warm welcome whilst I have been on placement here in the parish of Corpus Christi. The generosity of many parishioners has deeply touched me. The hard work each parishioner contributes has not gone unnoticed. I have learned a lot whilst I have been in the parish from parishioners and your parish priest Fr Alfred. I have been to all the schools within the parish, and I have been impressed by the children's deep and thoughtful questions and knowledge. As I leave the parish, please be assured that I will remember all of you in my prayers as I continue my formation. Please pray for me and all those studying for the priesthood. A special prayer for vocations to the priesthood. On Friday 10 February, at 7pm in St Brendan's, there will be a Mass to pray for Vocations to the Priesthood. Everyone is welcome to attend.

Thought for the Week

“The family is a community of love where each of us learns to relate to others & to the world around us. ”

Pope Francis

Have you a dream that is still waiting to be born; is there something in your life which was once a path to your future which has now become a cul-de-sac, a road which you have never travelled. We all begin life with dreams and aspirations; sometimes they are impossible to achieve, often they are put to one side because the time is not quite right, if we are fortunate, we can live our dreams Today’s readings speak to us of an old dream which is made new because a light has been shone upon it. Perhaps that same light will grow strong and illuminate the path to your dream.

The prophet Zephaniah is writing 600 years before the birth of Christ; he recognises a condition which we may be familiar with. The poor, the humble, are ignored by the rich and powerful; they feel they have no power in a land where power is everything. Their hopes are founded on the Lord; they seek Him with integrity and humility, only God can save them from the hands of wicked men. They pray for justice and a refuge in the Lord.

Paul’s dream is of a people who will come and worship God through His Son Jesus Christ. He recognises that those who follow Christ are not the rich and powerful, the worldly wise, but those who simply believe in Jesus Christ as their Lord and Saviour. We are not wise by human reckoning, we have faith, a belief which may seem foolish by those who believe they are wise, but a faith that makes us part of God’s kingdom and so He has become our wisdom.

In Matthew’s Gospel, we begin a revelation, through Jesus, of the Kingdom of God. We hear the beatitudes, a series of blessings which give honour to the lowliest and not the mighty. We sometimes speak of Jesus “turning the world upside down”; this passage is the beginning of that upheaval; the transfer of power from the powerful to the humble. Each line resonates with our own time. Because today’s world is so small, we are aware of the suffering of many, an awareness which was not known to past generations. Today we cannot ignore poverty, it is all around us, we cannot ignore injustice, war, persecution because we see it, in real time, on our television screens. Now is the time, armed with the righteousness of God, to speak out against the unjust world we live in and seek to change it. In our small way, we can begin to fulfil the beatitudes, all we need to do is to have courage and, through our actions, place our dream of a better world into God’s hands.
